Drum Fill From Rock And Roll by Led Zeppelin

This week I'd like to share my personal favorite drum fill from Rock and Roll. It's not the most recognizable drum part played in this song by John Bonham; that would clearly be the drum intro and the other subsequent snare/hi-hat 8th note fills that mimic the intro throughout.

However, the technique Bonham uses in the 3rd and final verse of the song is sweet. He toys with the backbeat unexpectedly when coming out of the fill by placing the backbeat on beat 1 and then crash/accents on the next 8th note. This confuses the backbeat until beat 4 where he returns to business as usual. Very cool!

The accompanying video lesson explains the following notation and demonstrates the techniques. View the video lesson here:

Applying The Technique To Your Drumming

You can use this technique when coming out of any fill. In the example below, the slashed lines indicate to play a drum fill. Then, we borrow Bonham's technique to come out of the fill.
